OFFENDER ID FOR SECURITY PROFESSIONALS

Offender Marker

Offender ID™ is a police accredited tagging system designed for use by security professionals. Using RedWeb's advanced Molecular Taggent Technology, the portable spray device ensures that criminals can be identified even if they flee the crime scene. For more information and specifications download the Offender Marker information sheet. [PDF, 909KB]

Why Use?

- It enables security personnel to keep a form of RedWeb's Molecular Tagging Technology close to hand and ready to use.
- Self defence – security professionals such as door supervisors can use the OffenderID to distract an attacker.
- Deter theft – cash in transit operatives can deploy the spray to put off would-be thieves.
- Detect criminals by using the unique Molecular Taggent Technology code to tie the criminal to the crime. Thieves, attackers and intruders can all be identified even if they escape the crime scene.
- RedWeb's Molecular Taggent Technology, can be used as evidence to help secure a conviction.
- OffenderID spray can be an effective piece of kit for Police Community Support Officers. By enabling them to tag offenders, it allows them to identify the criminal and provide evidence linking them to the crime scene without stepping outside of the boundaries of their role.
- Door supervisors, security officers, store detectives, cash in transit operatives, event stewards, close protection officers, or community wardens can all benefit from the added security of carrying OffenderID.

How it Works

OffenderID offers a portable form of RedWeb's Molecular Taggent Technology. The small canister can be attached to clothing ready for use.

If an offender is caught committing a crime and the security officer is unable to apprehend them, the officer can spray the offender with offender ID. This marks them with a Forensic Taggent dye, making it easier for pursuing officers to identify the criminal as well as providing evidence to link them irrefutably to the crime scene. The offender ID spray can also be deployed for self-defence, as spraying the criminal can both distract and deter them.

We provide a four hour training course offering guidance on safe and appropriate use of offender ID which all security personnel must complete before being supplied with the product. This is essential as it ensures that use of the device meets the police guidelines for their Secured by Design initiative.
